Expanko Announces the Prestige Stained Cork Collection

August 4, 2020 — Expanko Resilient Flooring, a brand of Stonhard, is pleased to announce the latest addition to its Prestige Traditional Cork Flooring line, the Stained Cork Collection. Prestige cork floors are made from pre-consumer cork waste, offering an environmentally-friendly alternative to hardwood floors. In addition to traditional light, medium, and dark styles that have been popular throughout commercial markets, Prestige is now available in four new colors, Cornsilk, Sable, Fossil, and Whitewash.

Prestige, as durable as it is attractive, comes in 12" x 12" or 24" x 24" tiles with custom cutting available upon request. It is non-toxic, easy to install and maintain, water resistant, and comes with a Class 1 fire rating. Its excellent acoustic properties and comfort underfoot make it ideal for spaces in schools and colleges, office buildings, sports and entertainment complexes, government buildings, retail shops, restaurants, hotels, libraries, houses of worship, and residential complexes.

"We're excited to give customers more variety as they consider this climate-positive, carbon-negative product for their commercial projects. Prestige can assist in achieving LEED certification while offering so many other benefits including beautifying your space," says Sally Reis, General Manager, Expanko.
